

Hamlet

Lines that relate to living up to expectations – set by society or its elders.

*but to persever
In obstinate condolement is a course
Of impious stubbornness; 'tis unmanly grief;
It shows a will most incorrect to heaven;
(1.2.92-95). (Claudius to Hamlet about his somber demeanor.)

*Ay, marry is't;
But to my mind, - though I am native here,
And to the manner born, -it is a custom
More honour'd in the the breach than the observance (1.4.13-16). (Hamlet in response to Horatio about his uncle's revelries.)

*No, my good lord; as you did command,
I did repel his letters and denied
His access to me. (2.1.105-107). (Ophelia to Polonius about Hamlet.)

*Marry, I'll teach you: think yourself a baby;
That you have ta'en these tenders for true pay,
Which are not sterling. Tender yourself more dearly;
Or, -not to crack the wind of the poor phrase,
Wronging it this, - you'll tender me a fool.
(1.3. 104-108). (Polonius to Ophelia about her romance with Hamlet.)

*'Lord Hamlet is a prince, out of thy sphere;
This must not be:' and the I precepts gave her,
That she should lock herself from his resort,
Admit no messengers, receive no tokens.
(2.2.138-141). (Polonius to Claudius and Gertrude about Ophelia and Hamlet.)

*Now, mother, what's the matter?

Hamlet, thou hast thy father much offended.

Mother, you have my father much offended. (3.4.7-9). (Hamlet to Gertrude.) Ophelia and Hamlet from Kozintsev's Hamlet (1964).

Hamlet, the Gravedigger, and Yorrik from Kozintsev's Hamlet's (1964).

Hamlet continued I.

Lines about frustration, isolation, and alienation from the world.

*How weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable
Seem to me all the uses of this world!
(1.2.133-134). (Hamlet to himself after Claudius's speech.)

*Why, what should be the fear?
I don't set my at a pin's fee;
And for my soul, what can it do to that,
Being a thing immortal as itself?
It waves me forth again; -I'll follow it.
(1.4.64-68). (Hamlet to Horatio - trying to stop him from following the Ghost.)

*O wicked wit and gifts, that have the power
So to seduce -won to his shameful lust
The will of my most seeming-virtuous queen:
O Hamlet, what a falling-off was there!
(1.5.44-47). (Old Hamlet to Hamlet about Gertrude's betrayal.)

*O villain, villain, smiling, damned villain!
My tables, -meet it is I set it down,
That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain;
At least, I am sure, it may be so in Denmark: (1.5. 106-109). (Hamlet after the Ghost has initially departed.)

*Ay, sir; to be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand.
(2.2.175). (Hamlet to Polonius.)

*Nay, but to live
In the rank sweat of an enseamed bed,
Stwe'd in corruption, honeying and making love
Over the nast sty,- (3.4.89-92). (Hamlet to his mother Gertrude about her marriage with Claudius.)

*A slave that is not twentieth part the kith
Of your precedent lord, a vice of kings;
A cutpurse of the empire and the rule,
That from a shelf the precious diadem stole
And put it in his pocket,- (3.4.95-99). (Hamlet to Gertrude.)

*And will he not come again?
And will he not come again?
No, no, he is dead,
Go to thy death-bed,
He never will come again. (4.5.182-185). (Ophelia singing about her dead father.)

Prose:

I have of late, but wherefore I know not, last all my mirth, forgone all custom of exercises and, indeed, it goes so heavily with my disposition that this goodly frame the earth seems to me a sterile promontory, this most excellent canopy the air, look you, this brave o'erchanging firmament, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire, why it appeareth nothing to me but a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours. (2.2.261-269). (Hamlet to Rosencrantz and Guildenstern.)

What piece of of work is a man – how noble in reason; how express and admirable in action; how like an angel in apprehension; how like a god; the beauty of the world; the paragon of animals. And yet to me what is this quintessence of dust? Man delights not me – nor women neither, though by your smiling you seem to say so. (2.2.269-276). (Again, Hamlet to Rosencrantz and Guildenstern.)

Speaking Daggers - Lines with insults, name-calling, and other rude details.

*Not this, by no means, that I bid you do-
Let the bloat King tempt you again to bed,
Pinch wanton on your cheek, call you his mouse
(3.4.179-181). (Hamlet to Gertrude about Claudius.)

*For yourself, sir, shall grow old as I am – if, like a crab, you could go backward. (2.2.199-200).
(Hamlet to Polonius in the halls of Castle.)

*Here, thou incestuous, damned Dane!
Drink of this potion. Is this union here?
Follow my mother. (5.2.309-311). (Hamlet as he kills Claudius.)

*Do not, as some ungracious pastors do
Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven
Whiles, a puffed and reckless libertine,
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads (1.3.
46-49). (Ophelia to her brother Laertes.)

*Well said, old mole, canst work i'th' earth so fast?
A worthy pioneer! (1.5.161-162). (Hamlet thinking there is a man underground as the Ghost beckons.)

*This lapwing runs away with the shell on his head. (5.2.165).
(Horatio about Osric.)

*How now! A rat! Dead for a ducat, dead! (3.4.23). (Hamlet to Polonius before he kills him.)

*Affection? Pooh, you speak like a green girl (1.3.99). (Polonius to Ophelia about Hamlet).

*-a king of shreds and patches-Save me and hover o'er me with your wings,
You heavenly guards! (3.4.99-
101). (Hamlet to Gertrude and the Ghost.)

*Excellent well, you are a fishmonger. (2.2.171). (Hamlet to Polonius.)

*-Thou wretched, rash, intruding, fool, farewell:
I took thee for thy better. Take thy fortune; (3.4.29-30).

Prose:

Slanders, sir. For the satirical rogue says here that old men have grey beards, that their faces are wrinkled, their eyes purging thick amber and plumtree gum, and that that they have a plentiful lack of wit together with most weak hams – all which, sir, though I most powerfully and potently believe, yet I hold it not honestly to have it this set down. (2.2.193-199). (Hamlet to Polonius.)

Haider from Haider (2014), a Hamlet adaptation.

Published copy of the Spanish Tragedy.

The Spanish Tragedy

Quotes about madness, lunacy, and fantasy.

*There, in a brazen cauldron fixed by Jove
In his fell wrath upon a sulfur flame,
Yourselves shall find Lorenzo bathing him
In boiling lead (3.11.26-29).

*Doubtless this man is passing lunatic,
Or imperfection of his age doth make him dote. (3.11.32-33). (2nd Portuguese in reference to Hieronimo's intense answer.)

*Give me my son – you shall not ransom him!
Away! I'll rip the bowels of the earth,
(He diggeth with his dagger.) (3.12.69-71).
(Hieronimo digs at the dirt as he tells the King who murdered his son.)

*Villain thou liest, and thou doest naught
But tell me I am mad. Thou liest, I am not mad.
I know thee to be Pedro, and he Jaques;
I'll prove it to thee, and were I mad,
how could I? (3.12A.42-45).
(Hieronimo to Pedro.)

*And therefore, in despite of all thy threats,
Pleased with their deaths, and eased
with their revenge,
First take my tongue and afterwards
my heart. (4.4.185-188).

Historical references - References to Monarchy and Social Class.

*I was a courtier in the Spanish court.
My name was Don Andrea, my descent,
Though not ignoble, yet inferior far
To gracious fortunes of my tender youth;
(1.1.4-8). (Ghost of Don Andrea introduces play.)

*Nephew, thou took'st his weapon and his horse,
His weapons and his horse are thy reward.
Horatio, thou didst force him first to yield,
His ransom therefore is thy valour's fee;
(1.2.180-183). (King to Horatio and Balthazar.)

*This is an argument for our Viceroy,
That Spain may not insult for her success,
Since English warriors likewise conquered
Spain
And made them bow their knees to Albion.
(1.4.168-171). (Hieronimo and Ambassador discussing Sir John of Gaunt.)

Depiction of a Spanish soldier/conquistador.

Titus Andronicus

The grotesque, the violent, the gore...

Titus (Anthony Hopkins) by Julie Taymor (1999).

*A nobler man, a braver warrior,
Lives not this day within the city walls.
He by the senate is accited home
From weary wars against the barbarous
Goths,
That with his sons, a terror to our foes,
(1.1.25-29). (Bassianus to the people of Rome about Titus.)

*Give us the proudest prisoner of the Goths,
That we may hew his limbs and on a pile
Ad manes fratrum sacrifice his flesh
Before this earthly prison of their bones,
(1.1.99-102). (Bassianus to the Romans.)

*See, lord and father, how we have performed
Our Roman rites: Alarbus’ limbs are lopped
And entrails feed the sacrificing fire, (1.1.145-147). (Lucius to his father Titus.)

*This is the day of doom for Bassianus,
His Philomel must lose her tongue today,
Thy sons make pillage of her chastity
And wash their hands in Bassianus’ blood.
(2.3.[2.4]42-45). (Demetrius and Chiron plot Lavinia rape.)

*Speak, gentle niece, what stern ungentle hands
Hath lopped and hewed and made thy body bare
Of her two branches, (2.3. [2.4]16-17). (Marcus to Lavinia.)

*What, villain boy,
Barr’st me my way in Rome?

Help, Lucius, help! (1.1.294-295). (Titus as he kills his son Mutius.)

*Alas, a crimson river of warm blood,
Like to a bubbling fountain stirred with wind,
Doth rise and fall between thy rosed lips,
Coming and going with thy honey breath.
(2.3.[2.4]22-25). (Marcus about Lavinia.)

*Ten thousand worse than ever yet I did
Would I perform if I might have my will.
If one good deed in all my life I did
I do repent it from my very soul. (5.3.186-189).
(Aaron after Lucius has given his sentence.)

Titus Continued

Metaphors – Lions and Tigers and Bears, Oh My!

*Why, foolish Lucius, dost thou not perceive
That Rome is but a wilderness of tigers? (3.1.53-54) (Titus to his son about his plan to rescue his brothers.)

*As for that ravenous tiger, Tamora,
No funeral rite, nor man in mourning
weed,
No mournful bell shall ring her burial,
But throw her forth to beasts and birds to prey: (5.3.194-197). (Lucius about Tamora’s body – end of play.)

Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead (1990)

Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead

The metaphysics of reality- what is ‘real’ and what is not...

*Words, words. They’re all we have to go on.
Pause
Shouldn’t we be doing something – constructive?
What did you have in mind?... A short, blunt human pyramid...?
(Stoppard 696). (Guil to Ros.)

*We cross our bridges when we come to them and burn them behind us, with nothing to show for our progress except a memory of the smell of smoke, and a presumption that once our eyes watered. (Stoppard 1150). (Guil to Ros.)

*It couldn’t have been real.
‘The colours red, blue and green are real. The colour yellow is a mystical experience shared by everybody’ -demolish.
(at edge of stage) It must have been thunder. Like drums...
(Stoppard 246). (Ros and Guil after faintly heraring the band – drums.)

*Eternity is a terrible thought. I mean, where’s it going to end?
(Stoppard 1384). (Ros to Guil.)

*Life is a gamble, at terrible odds – if it was a bet you wouldn’t take
it. (Stoppard 2355). (Player to Ros and stowaways.)

Hamlet (1948), Laurence Olivier.
